Sustainability Investors Roundtable

2 Nov 2022 | University of Cambridge

PROGRAMME

Indian Partnership Forum, Judge Business School Cambridge University and the High Commission of India will convene a special session of the UK-India Institutional Investor Sustainability Roundtable. This is a follow up to the Roundtable organised at the High Commission of India on 31st March 2022.

The roundtable brings together institutional investment community, policy makers and private sector companies engaged in financing renewable energy particularly in the UK-India corridor.

This session will be special as we will also be launching a global student competition in collaboration with Cambridge University’s Judge Business School, challenging business school students from around the world to come up with original and innovative financing or business model solutions to emerging market climate transition, using India as its core case study. The competition will be launched at the event, run through to March 2023, and be judged by senior climate change, industry, and institutional investor professionals.

IPF Global Impact Challenge

Projected to be the World’s largest university challenge focusing on Emerging Markets where hundreds of students from all over the world meet with industry leaders to propose investing solutions to complex societal issues. This year’s inaugural competition will focus on how global institutional investors tackle India’s climate finance challenges.

A global challenge that brings together students and industry to solve complex investing issues	An opportunity for student teams from around the world to compete and win cash prizes	A forum that brings together academic and institutional investor communities on sustainable investing solutions
